- Everyone wants a visa but they don’t have it

Step 2: Define Outcome 🎟️🤝

The outcome you promise may be their desired situation, or fixing one or more problems that contribute to it. The outcome should align with what your niche wants, not what you can do.

Answer the following:

What is the big promise you intend on keeping? What's the bold claim?

In 90 Days you will know exactly what business model to start, the entire action plan and full clarity

How can you make this promise tangible? (numbers based)

Relieved, deeply focused, and quietly confident. The heavy background anxiety of "life is passing me by" will be replaced by the quiet pride of daily execution.

Where will someone be after you solve their problem?

The "Consistent Executor." A professional who works their day job but systematically builds their escape vehicle on the side, knowing exactly what to do when they open their laptop.

How will they feel once they have this outcome?

Relieved, deeply focused, and quietly confident. The heavy background anxiety of "life is passing me by" will be replaced by the quiet pride of daily execution.

What is the end state they will be in after working with you?

The "Consistent Executor." A professional who works their day job but systematically builds their escape vehicle on the side, knowing exactly what to do when they open their laptop.

What will this mean to them? What doors does it open for them?

It rebuilds their self-trust. They will finally believe that when they set a goal, they can actually stick to it. This opens the door to eventually making that 50,000 MAD/month, getting married with confidence, and achieving the freedom they crave.

Why is this outcome important to them?

Because the pain of staying the same is finally outweighing the fear of starting. They feel like failures after dropping e-commerce and trading; they need a win to prove to themselves (and their ex-girlfriends/family) that they are capable.

What unconscious drives does this outcome accomplish?

Control and validation. By taking action, they regain control over their destiny. By learning real sales psychology and business models, they validate their identity as intelligent, capable men.

How does this outcome move them closer to their desired situation?

You cannot reach a filled bank account, a nice car, or support your parents if you change business models every two weeks. Clarity and action are the mandatory prerequisites to their financial dreams.

What will their next desired state be once the first one is achieved?

Scaling their chosen business model to officially replace their 10k-17k MAD salary so they can quit their job.

Step 3: Define Time-frame 🎟️🤝

Answer the following:

What is a realistic timeframe for you to achieve the outcome by?

30 days to achieve absolute clarity on their chosen path. 90 days to establish the unbreakable habit of consistent execution.

Why does it take this long?

Because they are working full-time 40+ hours a week. We have to deprogram years of "get rich quick" expectations, rewire their mindset through your "epiphany" videos, and give them the breathing room to absorb the technical deep-dives on sales and marketing without feeling overwhelmed.

How could you make the time frame shorter?

By eliminating all the fluff. Providing them with plug-and-play frameworks (like your cold outreach templates and universal marketing tech) directly inside the weekly community uploads, so they don't have to build the machine from scratch—they just have to turn the key.

Conclusion:

Step 4: Establish Methodology 🎟️🤝

Answer the following:

What are the core components of your product?

1. Full Mindset Course to help them take action
2. Full explanation of foundational concepts, and different business models
3. Marketing and client acquisition Foundations
4. Sales Foundations
5. Full AI module
6. Tools, softwares, and recommendations for best lean setup possible (payment processors, banking, etc…)

How do these core components help achieve the outcome?

Mindset Course: Cures the fatal "Shiny Object Syndrome" and the tendency to over-analyze, shifting them from consumers of content to consistent executors.
Foundational Concepts: Provides the "Clarity over Wealth" framework, allowing them to confidently pick one low-friction model that actually fits around their 15k MAD 9-to-5 schedule.
Marketing & Sales Foundations: Equips them with universal, high-leverage skills (like copywriting and cold reading to reduce sales resistance) so they can generate cash flow without relying on the tight margins of local COD or dropshipping.
Full AI Module: Gives them the technical leverage to build funnels, automate outreach, and deploy AI agents, preserving their limited cognitive energy after a 50-hour corporate work week.
Lean Setup & Tools: Completely bypasses the structural friction that caused their past failures—such as Stripe bans and "Dotation" limits—by giving them reliable, modern gateway solutions (like Payoneer, CMI alternatives, or Zazu).

List what needs to be done in full detail, in order to achieve the outcome…

1. Audit their daily routine to eliminate "Tberguig" (obsessively scrolling Instagram) and free up a dedicated 2-hour "Execution Window" every evening.

2. Complete the mindset reset to detach from unrealistic "fake guru" expectations and commit entirely to a 90-day timeline of unbroken action.

3. Select one specific, low-friction B2B service model (e.g., AI implementation or cold outreach automation) that requires zero capital and bypasses local logistics/payment constraints.

4. Build a foundational client acquisition funnel utilizing universal marketing principles and AI automation tools.

5. Master basic sales psychology and objection handling to confidently close deals, even without a massive portfolio of past proof.

6. Set up a lean, compliant operational stack using reliable local and international fintech tools to avoid capital control ceilings.

7. Execute the chosen daily action plan consistently for 90 days without second-guessing or changing the model.

What are the most important items on this list?

Mindset model, and why is he actually not working
Payment processor and software stack with the most lean process

What are the least important items on this list?

Building overly complex funnels with interactive 3D web elements or heavy custom code.
Worrying about scaling, advanced corporate structures, or branding before landing the very first client.

Can the least important items be removed, while still achieving the outcome?

Yes. The primary goal is clarity and consistent action. Because this demographic has a Master's degree, their academic reflex is to seek "Perfect Information" and overcomplicate things before starting. Stripping away anything that isn't a core sales, marketing, or mindset activity prevents this paralysis.

Now re-do your list but make each step simple, no more than 6-9 words…

1. Stop watching others and make free time.
2. Fix your mindset and lower your expectations.
3. Pick one simple B2B service model.
4. Build a basic system to get clients.
5. Learn basic sales psychology to close deals.
6. Set up reliable banking to get paid.
7. Execute the exact same plan every day.

Can these steps be understood by a 10 year old? (if not, make them more simple)

Yes

Step 5: Offer Differentiation (The Ascendant Model) 🎟️🤝

The goal here is to clearly separate the accessible entry point from the premium, high-access mentorship.

Tier 1: The $28 Community (The Foundation & Clarity Blueprint)

- What it is: The cure for analysis paralysis.
- What they get: Weekly group calls, community accountability, and recorded technical modules (Marketing, Sales, AI Basics, Tech Stack).
- The Vibe: A structured environment giving them the exact frameworks they need to stop overthinking and start building.
- What it does NOT include: 1-on-1 access, customized action plans, or a behind-the-scenes look at your personal business.

Tier 2: The $280 Mentorship (The "Over-The-Shoulder" Partnership)

- What it is: A customized 90-day execution plan tailored to their exact schedule, heavily enforced by direct accountability.
- What they get: 1-on-1 coaching calls, personalized funnel/strategy audits, and the "No-Excuses" Guarantee.
- The Ultimate Differentiator (The Reality Check): This tier pulls back the curtain entirely. I will walk them step-by-step through exactly how I am actively building my own AI implementation agency while holding down a demanding 9-to-5. I will show them my actual calendar and how I balance high-stress logistics operations—managing road import processes, tracking, and operational bottlenecks—during the day, while building AI agents and running B2B cold outreach at night.
- Why it converts: It completely destroys the "I don't have time because of my job" excuse. They aren't buying theory from a guru on a beach; they are buying a front-row seat to watch a peer execute in the exact same corporate trenches they are in.

Step 6: Reverse risk (safety net) 🎟️🤝

Do you guarantee that if someone follows your methodology, they will achieve the outcome? Yes.

If yes, build out your guarantee:

Will you offer a refund? No. Offering a refund gives them an easy "out" when the work gets hard. My goal is to cure their paralysis, not give them their money back so they can go buy another course they won't finish.

Are you willing to go ‘in the red’ if it doesn’t work? Will you work for free if it doesn't work? Yes. If they strictly follow their custom 90-day action plan, launch their outreach, and do not see results, I will work with them 1-on-1 for free for an additional 60 days.

What could you give them as an apology if it doesn't work? My undivided time. We will personally sit down, audit their funnel, rewrite their cold reading scripts, and adjust their AI workflow until the bottleneck is permanently cleared.

Are you willing to work on a performance basis? Not for the initial $280 upfront fee, because that financial sting is required to force their psychological commitment and filter out time-wasters.

How are you aligning the incentives? If they fail, I lose my most valuable asset: my free time outside of my day job. This forces me to ensure the customized plan I give them is foolproof and strictly tailored to their limited hours.

What incentive do you have to ACTUALLY make sure it works? I need their success story to scale my $28 community. Plus, I do not want to be trapped doing 60 days of unpaid 1-on-1 labor.

What is your guarantee? State it below (the bolder the better) If you execute your custom 90-day action plan and don't see results, I will work with you 1-on-1 for completely free for another 60 days. I will literally get into the trenches with you, audit your sales systems, and fix your bottlenecks until it works. I only win when you take action.

Name your guarantee The "No-Excuses Execution" Guarantee

Step 8: Ultimatum 🎟️🤝

Best case: You invest ~$280. We build a highly customized, low-friction plan that fits perfectly around your 9-to-5. You break free from months of overthinking. Within 90 days, you master high-leverage AI and marketing skills, launch your automated outreach, land your first paying client, and establish a real side income that puts you on the path to 50,000 MAD/month.

Worst case: You invest ~$280. You struggle to get the system working perfectly in the first 90 days. Because of the guarantee, you get an additional 60 days of my personal 1-on-1 time for free. Even if you completely fail to get a client, you walk away having mastered universally valuable skills (AI automation, funnel architecture, sales psychology) that make you a lethal asset in the business world, easily covering the downside of your initial investment.

Step 10: Pricing 🎟️🤝

What is your competition charging for a similar outcome? Generic local "gurus" charge $500 to $1,500+ for overwhelming video courses with absolutely zero 1-on-1 access or personalization.

What is the outcome you're promising worth to someone? Breaking the cycle of stagnation, curing the anxiety of "wasting their life," and giving them a tangible vehicle to afford marriage and a premium lifestyle is worth at least $5,000 in lifetime value.

What are they going to be willing to pay for it? Given their 10,000 - 17,000 MAD salary, $280 (around 2,800 MAD) is the sweet spot. It represents about 15-20% of their monthly income—a serious commitment that forces action, but not a life-threatening risk that triggers panic.

At which point does price exceed value? (bad) Anything over $500 upfront for this specific, highly skeptical demographic will trigger their "fake guru" alarm and kill the conversion rate.

What do you think the outcome is worth in monetary terms ($)? Easily $2,000+, considering the 1-on-1 time, the custom strategic build, and the fact that I am showing them inside my own active business.

What are you going to charge? $280.

If you 2x'd your price ($560), what value would you need to add to justify it? A "Done-For-You" element, such as fully building their landing page, completely setting up their AI automation tools, or writing their first 30 days of cold email copy for them.

If you 5x'd your price ($1,400), what value would you need to add to justify it? I would need to guarantee a specific revenue outcome (e.g., "I will work with you until you hit your first $1,500 month") or provide them with a list of highly qualified, pre-vetted leads.

If you 10x'd your price ($2,800), what value would you need to add to justify it? A full agency partnership where I build the entire infrastructure, run the outreach, close their first 3 B2B clients on their behalf, and hand over a fully functioning, cash-flowing business.
